He spoke highly of the medical corpsmen of both the Army and Navy. He also praised the youth of this war as doing a magnificent job.

Cmdr. Jefferies has just recently returned from many months active duty in the Pacific where he participated in the invasions of Iwo Jima and Okinawa. He received his education at the Petty School and Princeton University and was in charge of the athletic program at Princeton.

Shortage of Sugar Hinder Canning

Ration Board's Have Many Applications But Very Little Sugar

The Ardmore Rationing Board and the Narberth Rationing Board in Haverford Township are currently requesting those people who plan to purchase fruits and vegetables for canning and who have not applied for their canning sugar, not to do so. The quota of canning sugar which has been allotted the boards is only 70 per cent of last year's allotment, and since it is issued on a quota basis, there just isn't enough to go around.

Both boards have a great many applications already on hand which have not been filled due to the severe sugar shortage. It is felt by H. M. Harmon of the Ardmore Board and William Vallar of the Narberth board, that it is unfair for persons to purchase their products for canning and then have the rationing boards can fill the sugar needs.

According to them persons who wish to do canning should first make sure that the rationing boards can fill the sugar applications before the produce is purchased.

Henry H. Perry of the Bryn Mawr Board said that he had received all the sugar applications on hand completed by the end of the week. The Bryn Mawr board has been issuing only five pounds of sugar to those persons who meet the requirements instead of the 10 pounds.

Perry said that in this way everyone who qualified would get some sugar despite the greatly reduced quota. He also said as soon as the situation improved, he hoped that it would be able to completely fill the allotments.

Lt. Dooner, a fighter pilot, was on a fighter sweep over Guam when his plane went down. He was stationed in the Marianas at the time. Having been in active service only three months at the time of his death, he had already participated in the action at Hollandia.

He was graduated from Lower Merion High School in 1941 and worked for a year with Paul and Beekman. He enlisted in the Navy in June, 1942 and was graduated from Pensacola as an ensign in 1942.

Pool Chlorination Not Effective Against Polio, Says Chemist

Two New Cases of Paralysis Are Reported In Haverford Township; None In Narberth And Lower Merion

Two new cases of infantile paralysis were reported in Haverford Township this week.

Both cases, said by health authorities to be mild, are in the Fitzgerald-Merion Hospital, Darby.

Lower Merion Township and Narberth Borough in the Southwestern Philadelphia suburban area, are free of cases.

Health authorities in the three municipalities of Lower Merion, Haverford and Narberth declared they were not concerned with the situation and there were no signs of a receding epidemic form.

Quarantine measures, the same as applied every year where contacts and suspected persons are involved, will be used in the three adjacent municipalities.

The new cases in Haverford are:

Harry Brown, 8, 618 Furlong Ave., Manoa, and John Sherlock, 1019 Bon Air Ave., Bon Air, near Manoa.

This brings to three the number of cases that have developed in Haverford. Rhys Begel, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Begel, 523 Central Ave., Bon Air, died in Bryn Mawr Hospital on July 21 of paralysis.

Harry Frischman, secretary of the Haverford Board of Health, declared Wednesday that an investigation conducted with health officer Dr. N. E. Ross, revealed no contact between the cases.

Meanwhile the Lower Merion Health Board met on Monday night and ordered its health officer, Robert Thomas, to keep the same quarantine measures in all cases and contacts as were applied in previous years.

Following the meeting Thomas said all members of a household where a case of polio has been reported must be quarantined. He said that any close associates of a child, who develops the disease, especially those having eating contacts would be quarantined.

Dr. David W. Horn, chemist for Lower Merion and Haverford, said at the meeting Monday night that although chlorination of swimming pools was one of the best disinfectants it would not kill the paralytic virus.

Historians taken of the new polio cases in Haverford reveal that Brown was taken ill on July 28 and sent to the Fitzgerald-Merion hospital. Dr. David W. Horn, chemist for Lower Merion and Haverford, said that at the meeting Monday night that although chlorination of swimming pools was one of the best disinfectants it would not kill the paralytic virus.

There are four new books released this week:

"There Was a Lady," by Sarah Lister, an unusual and suspenseful love story with elements of a recent past, an eager and intense present, and a future balanced between romance and reality.

"The Story," by Marie Kunze, a Polish heroine who was awarded the Polish heroine prize in 1937 for "The City of Warsaw," her first book published with an English translation.

"Of Normandy," by B. M. Sawdon, a mature and stirring love story of a French provincial and a young English aristocrat, against a colorful background of Norman country.

"The Fates are Laughing," by W. P. Crozier, a love story of Roman society at the time of Tiberius Paligula, Pilate, and Peter.

C. of C. Discusses Atomic Discovery

Merchants Dispense Regular Business To Hear Dr. Horn

Main Line business men postponed mercantile subjects and devoted their Wednesday noon meeting to a discussion of the atomic bomb discovery.

They met in the Haverford Court Hotel, William J. Lloyd, president of the Main Line Chamber of Commerce, presided.

Dr. David W. Horn, chemist for Lower Merion and Haverford Townships, led the discussion.

Dr. Horn discussed the chemical function of the atomic bomb, one phase of the world-shaking discovery that has not been explained in detail.

Decomposition of the uranium atoms, which are 238 times as heavy as the hydrogen atom, are responsible for the terrific force generated by the new weapon, he said.

Declared Dr. Horn:

"Spontaneous decomposition of one pound of any of the 92 elements would produce ten thousand million kilowatt hours of energy. While chemical decomposition, such as burning, would only produce three hours of energy, man's harnessing of the atomic force explains much of the new phenomena," Dr. Horn said.

Park Areas Below Minimum Acreage

Cheltenham Is Only Nearby Place To Meet Standards

Cheltenham Township, Montgomery County, is the only municipality in suburban Philadelphia which meets the minimum standard for park and playground purposes.

The minimum standard, determined by recreation and planning authorities, is one acre for every 100 population.

Haverford Township, Delaware County, with 35,000 population has 150 acres set aside for recreation purposes; Lower Merion Township, Montgomery County, with 45,000 population has 190 acres and Narberth Township, Montgomery County, with 5,000 population has three acres.

Figures for park areas in Pennsylvania were computed by the Department of Interior, Harrisburg. According to John W. Stoker, chief of the Department's landscape division, more than 300 communities in Pennsylvania do not own a single park acre.

He said a survey showed only six of the third class cities—Reading, Allentown, Harrisburg, Johnstown, New Castle and Lebanon—10 boroughs—Donora, Downingtown, Grove City, Hellertown, Kane, Laureldale, Sewickley, Springdale, Tyrone and Wellsboro; and one first class township, Cheltenham, were up to the standard or above it.

Move to Tighten State Health Law

Lower Merion Wants All Food Handlers Examined

The Lower Merion Health Board took steps Monday night to strengthen the weak point in the new State law requiring licensing of public eating and drinking places.

The law, which as a whole, is one of the most stringent ever applied to restaurants, contains no provision to continue medical examinations for local health officials.

It was indicated, Lower Merion health directors said Monday night, when they met at the Township Building in Ardmore, that State authorities intended to leave this phase of enforcement up to municipalities.

The Lower Merion Health Board referred the new law to its law and ordinance committee for study. Dr. Richard A. Kern and Dr. William Bek are members of the committee.

Providing minimum standards of State health and sanitary laws are enforced, local health officials have the power to fix maximum standards by ordinance. This is being done with milk control in Lower Merion and Haverford Townships and Narberth Borough. Milk control standards of other municipalities are much higher.

G. I. Voting Rules Are Announced

Voting Commission Says Voting This Time To Be Easier

Montgomery County and other Pennsylvania service men born before Nov. 8, 1924, may vote for local or statewide candidates in the Nov. 6 election, but there will be no official drive to persuade them to vote, the State Election Bureau stated Tuesday.

In some respects, the bureau pointed out, it will be easier than ever for military personnel to vote. All it takes is a letter to the Bureau or to the voter's County Commissioners, requesting a military ballot.

The letter may be written by the service man, or anyone else who can state his voting qualifications: Name, home address, military address, age, American citizenship for at least one month; residence in Pennsylvania for at least six months if he was born here or was a former legal resident of the State, or a year otherwise; and residence in his election district for at least two months. That includes his time in the service; in other words, if he moved to his district one day, was inducted the next and has been in the service two months, he's qualified under that provision.

No Oath Necessary

He does not have to fill out an application blank, so long as the information about his qualifications is complete, it can be sent in on a post card, wrapping paper, or anything he wants. It does not have to be sworn.

These special provisions apply to members of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard (including Wacs, Waves, Spars, etc.), Merchant Marine, and the men of the United States Armed Forces in the Service of the United States, Women's Auxiliary Service Pilots, International Committee of the Y. M. C. A., National Catholic Community Service, Salvation Army, National Jewish Welfare Board, National Travelers' Aid Association, U. S. O.-Camp Shows, Inc. or American Field Service, who are attached to and serving with the armed forces.

Private Services Held For Merion Woman On Tuesday

Private funeral services were held on Tuesday for Mrs. Anna Scott, well known food expert and dietitian, who died Sunday night in Bryn Mawr Hospital at the age of 88.

Since her retirement in 1942, she had made her home with her son, Louis W. Scott, 697 Beacon La., Merion, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Nell Scott, who assisted her in her work with dietetics and food economy for 25 years.

Born in New York City on Nov. 14, 1856, Mrs. Scott came to Philadelphia in her youth and acquired an extensive knowledge of food economy working at the Kensington Hotel, owned by her father, Louis J. Storck.

At the Centennial Exhibition she demonstrated the first leather sewing machine, and later returned to managing the kitchen and dining rooms of the Kensington and the Chateau Hotel at Mt. Airy.

The need for knowledge of economical cooking by "mill girls" prompted her to open evening classes without charge to teach these girls to prepare appetizing, economical, balanced meals.

Her classes were later transferred to the Philadelphia Metropolitan Opera House.

Surviving in addition to her son and daughter-in-law are a sister, Mrs. Eleanor Allen of Wayne and three grandchildren, Louis W., Jr., Robert Stevenson and J. Nelson Scott.

Frankel Meets More Opposition in Plan To Build Wynnewood Apartment House

Ephraim J. Frankel and Wynnewood residents are only one floor apart in a compromise agreement they are trying to reach so that the Merion Board can go ahead and construct an apartment house on the southwest corner of Lancaster Ave. and Wynnewood Rd.

Frankel originally proposed to construct a six-story apartment building. The new plan, which the Merion Board has agreed to, is a four-story apartment house and only five for its construction.

Another move was made at a meeting of the board of directors of the Wynnewood Civic when they passed a resolution asking Lower Merion commissioners to limit the height of apartment houses to 35 feet.

After telling Frankel they would prefer to see him erect a three-story apartment house, the real estate developer dropped to plans for a five-story structure.

The Wynnewood group then told Frankel they would comprise for a four-story building.

Vacation At Home

Here Is Why...

In their free time Gladwyne firemen take a turn at most anything.

They promote holiday programs, sports and even have been known to take a back-door interest in politics.

As long as the war lasts they think their residents would be happier vacationing at home. Here are their reasons:

1. Learn to know the people of your community.
2. Stay home. You get only six gallons on your A coupons.
3. You can't find a cooler or more restful spot anywhere.
4. Why wear yourself out rushing here and there?
5. Your children will surely enjoy it.

Parent-Teacher Association

Issue of the Fall Election...

In Haverford Township and in Narberth Borough the question of parent-teacher organization was settled happily a long time ago.
In Lower Merion Township it is going to be a lively issue of the Fall campaign in which three school directors will be elected to one of the wealthiest school boards in the United States.

Narberth has been able to boast of one of the smoothest functioning and most effective associations in Pennsylvania. Haverford, where there are several parent-teacher groups, has had some stormy meetings with school authorities. Out of these stormy sessions has come a better understanding—higher type school officials and parent-teacher officers.

Some of the Lower Merion school directors are not excited about the prospects. They feel the burden of their positions and enjoy, too well, autonomous administration. At heart, they resent citizen influence from the outside.

This is not true of all the directors. Some are quite ready to embrace the idea of seeing parent-teacher associations organized in Lower Merion.

They are forward-looking and realize that even though the plan may entail give-and-take discussions; parents will have the satisfaction of having a say in school matters. To the forward-looking directors that is important. They are willing to pay that price for preserving the privileges of free speech and democracy.

When you talk to Lower Merion school directors they deny blocking attempts to organize parent-teacher groups. Which, technically, is true. The blocking that has taken place in the past has been the lack of any positive interest or enthusiasm in such groups. This has resulted in non-cooperation.

In fact, several years ago in Lower Merion a parent-teacher group was formed. They found themselves battling against a stone wall.

School directors now use this group as an example of how democratic they were in allowing it to organize. Also, as it turned out, this group went off on several wild tangents of educational reform.

This does not prove the point. Encouragement and recognition of such groups by directors would ultimately result in the right kind of parent-teacher associations being formed with the right kind of leadership.

All of which adds up to an interesting campaign issue for the November election.

To date the only one of the six candidates, (three Democrats and three Republicans) who has come out for the organization of parent-teacher groups is Gertrude Ely. Bryn Mawr. Miss Ely says she will campaign for active, constructive parent-teacher associations and adult education in whatever form seems best adapted to the local situation.

Brace Yourself For A Flood of Propaganda...

Through the newspaper grapevine we understand that some of the country's biggest political and business propagandists are planning a double-barreled attack on the Labor Party victory in England.

Basically they are frightened that the implications of this victory will spread through the ranks of labor in America.

When the blast starts through press releases and over the radio you may expect to hear a parade of the old scare, stereotyped phrases.
First of all, you will hear that not the Labor Party but the Communists are the real winners of Great Britain's election.

The propaganda is going to be a plug for free enterprise and against a government-subsidized program for full employment.

Liberal-minded Republican leaders are up-in-arms about the scheme. Use of the Republican Party as a vehicle to spread the propaganda and reactionary Republican leaders to mouth it, they contend, will do untold damage to the Party's hopes for victory in 1948.

It is this reactionary wing of the Party, the liberal-minded leaders contend, that is putting and keeping the real Republicans in Dutch with the rank and file of Labor. Furthermore, they point out, the program is defeating its own purpose. If anything, they say, it will help to bring into being a strong, militant Labor Party in America.

These liberal Republicans, who are still hopeful that the Party can be rejuvenated from within, are dead set against any of the Party's leaders—especially in Pennsylvania and New York (key states)—going off half-cocked on this propaganda line. If they do, they say, they are speaking for the unseen, big business interests they represent and not for the Republican Party. The average Republican nowadays, they say, is feeling very differently about Labor, peace, happiness, employment and even Russia. They are tired of taking a licking every four years because a few wind-bags speak out of turn.

These liberal Republicans still believe in God, democracy and free enterprise but they think that jobs for everyone who wants to work, decent homes in which to live and proper medical and hospital care are more important than the traditions of our ancestors, our Pilgrim forefathers and what not.

than the State minimum standards being enforced in other sections of Pennsylvania.

After study the Lower Merion law and ordinance committee will report back their recommendations to the Health Board. It is possible that these recommendations may include an ordinance which would require thorough and frequent medical examinations of handlers.

The Act in itself, as passed by the State Legislature, uses positive and strong language as to the employment of any person suffering from contagious or infectious disease. But when this section is interpreted by the Advisory Health Board, empowered by the State Department of Health to draw up detailed regulations, the responsibility is shifted to the proprietor of eating and drinking establishments.

Here is how Section 7 of the Act, passed by the State Legislature, reads:
"No proprietor shall have or keep in his employ any employee who is a typhoid fever carrier, or a carrier of other intestinal infections, or of diphtheria, or who is suffering from active tuberculosis,
or who is in his transmissible
stage, or who has any infectious disease or open, external lesion, nor shall the proprietor himself or any member of his family under the same conditions have anything to do with the handling, preparation, serving or providing of food or drink to the public."

Then read Section 19 of the rules and regulations adopted by the Advisory Health Board, June 27, 1945, and one can see why local measures are needed to supplement and put teeth into the regulation requiring medical examinations. Here is how Section 19 reads:

"No person who is affected with any disease in a communicable form or is a carrier of such disease shall work in any public eating or drinking place. Any proprietor, manager or other employee suspected of being affected with any disease in a communicable form or of being a carrier
of such disease shall be excluded from employment pending diagnosis of his condition including such laboratory or other tests as may be indicated. Any proprietor or manager of a public eating or drinking place suspecting that any employee has contracted any disease shall notify the appropriate health authorities. The health officer shall exclude immediately
from such employee employment
pending medical examination which shall include all pertinent laboratory tests.

tions, all were found in good condition. Several dilapidated buildings that were fire hazards were ordered torn down and the work
on three of them is about com-

All fire stations including Nar-

The address of the business
during the month of July was very low, according to the report made by Fire Marshal William Green, of Green Lane, at the monthly meeting of the Montgomery County Firemen's Association held Saturday night at East Norriton, the total loss was $1,955. There were 30 fires.

Green stated the fires in the county amounted to property valued at $106,000. There is $84,500 insurance on the properties.

The session was held in the Norriton school building with 46 companies represented by 66 delegates.
Total attendance was 181.

The address of welcome was

GOP Committee to Elect New Chairman,
Kimbell Resigning; Three Mentioned

Lower Merion Township Republican Committee members will elect a new chairman and endorse candidates nominated in the June 19 wartime primary on Monday night. They will meet in the Township Building, Ardmore.
Charles R. Kimbell, Rosemont, when he became a candidate for the Republican nomination of District, declared that he intended to resign the position he now holds as chairman of the local Republican committee.

Kimbell was opposed for the Republican nomination of commissioner and he will be without opposition from the Democrats in the November election.

His formal resignation as chairman of the Republican committee will be handed in Monday night.

Three names are being mentioned for the chairmanship vacancy: Harry A. Ferreira, Cynwyd; William B. Walker, North Ard-
more, and Edwin W. Semans, South Ardmore.

Ferreira was chairman of the campaign committee that nominated J. Walter Hammonds, Bryn Mawr commissioner, as the Republican candidate for township
treasurer in the June primary.

Walker was treasurer and Semans
one of the vice-presidents of the same committee.

It is understood that neither Ferreira or Walker are interested for personal reasons in the political position of chairman. Semans, who has been away on a vacation,
returned last Friday.

Election of Semans to the post
would raise a question on party rules as he is not a committeeman. Although copies of the old party by-laws have been missing for some years, the election of non-committee members as officers is not uncommon.

Florence Carter, chief clerk in the Lower Merion treasurer's office, has held the office of secretary of the committee for a number of years without being committeewoman.

Lloyd H. Wood, Montgomery
County assemblyman and chairman of the Republican county committee, also is not a committeeman.

Christian Science Churches
"Spirit" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 12. The Golden Text is:
"What man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man,
which is in him? even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God" (1. Corinthians 2:11).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook,
"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures": Mary Baker Eddy: "In the Bible the word Spirit is so commonly applied to Diet, that Spirit and God are often regarded as synonymous terms; and it is thus they are uniformly used and understood in Christian Science."

Library, Civic Improvement, Americanization Classes and Braille Work Are Part of 50 Years Of Activities Undertaken By Ardmore Club

Over the past year the Woman's Club of Ardmore has celebrated its Golden Anniversary year, just fifty years from the date of its founding on December 19, 1894. Since the Woman's Club of Ardmore has represented such a vital part of the community life in Ardmore, it seems fitting to bring to the public some realization of the Club's achievements over those 50 years. For this article Mrs. Paul DeB. Keever, one of the members, has very generously permitted the entire use of her extensive research into the archives of the Club compiled for the Golden Jubilee held at the club house last December 15th, a musical pageant directed by Mrs. Keever illustrating the highlights of the Club's history since its founding.

The original members gathered together in 1894 as "The Woman's Literary Club" for the "consideration of social, moral, and intellectual questions," with Mrs. Sydney Poole as the first president. The club Constitution and By-Laws were drawn up at this time and maintained. The name of the group changed to "The Literary Club of Ardmore County" and finally on April 1, 1907, to "The Woman's Club of Ardmore" incorporated with its first charter. Its colors became purple and gold, and its motto—"Service, Purpose, Friendliness." On November 13, 1914, the Club sponsored a meeting held on its premises for organizing the Montgomery County Federation of Clubs, those groups attending including the Cyn. wyl, Chisholm, Hatboro, and Pottstown clubs. Although the club began essentially as a literary group for debates and discussions on popular issues, with a club paper called "Squibs" and later a novelette in serial form called "Independence," it gradually broadened its scope to include the consideration of civic improvement, the uplift of women, the needs of children, and the field of operation with public schools, with departments embracing those topics, working in harmony with the General Federation of Women's Clubs and the State Federation with which the Ardmore club became affiliated in 1897. It is interesting to note that the Ardmore organization antedated the State Federation by almost a year. In 1900 Lucretia Blankenburg, one of the greatest suffragettes of her time and the wife of the Mayor of Philadelphia, came to the Ardmore club to include a class in Parliamentary Law. Also at this time the club members organized a Junior department giving the Woman's Club of Ardmore the distinction among women's clubs of having a Junior Group over the longest period of time, 44 years. An Art and Music department became a working part of the club. Likewise, as a result of sending delegates to the first state convention, members visited the public schools to study conditions and further a spirit of loyalty and patriotism, which automatically started a club committee on public playgrounds largely instrumental in obtaining suitable locations and fostering the movement for well-equipped and supervised playgrounds in Lower Merion. Also in 1919 when the "flu" epidemic reached its height, a diet kitchen was set up in the club house to dispense food to the sufferers and members volunteered their services to Bryn Mawr Hospital. When the crusade for child welfare was still in its infancy, the club members conducted a baby-saving campaign featuring a club exhibition attended by some 800 to 900 persons. Always have the members been active in the American Red Cross and similar organizations. Other fields of work included in the club's activities during the 50-year period have been dancing, drama, French language, interior decorating, Americanization classes for foreign-born, and some excellent work done in Braille.

Probably the achievement of which the Woman's Club of Ardmore is most proud, was the opening and maintaining of the Ardmore Free Library in March of 1898 to the present. It represents a continuing educational interest of the club and carries an unique history collected from all four corners with 300 volumes collected from all four corners of Ardmore plus a $5 per member pledge fund, the library grew and prospered in a second-floor room of the old Merion Title and Trust Building, the members serving in turn as librarians. Within two years it possessed 3,000 volumes and 3 travelling libraries. Then in 1908 the almost 19-year-old club of the Club moved with its now 4,000 books to the Y. M. C. A. Building on Lancaster Avenue, receiving its first outside appropriation of $300 from the School Board in November, 1908.

Time To Make Jelly

Choosing and Preparing Fruit
Grapes, peaches, plums and apples seem to be the most available. Select perfect fruit, some slightly underripe. Wash thoroughly and discard any spoiled spots. Add about 1 pint of water for pound of hard fruit and about 1 cup water for each pound of soft fruit. Boil until soft.

Stretching Sugar
Sugar in jellies, jams and preserves sweetens, preserves and gives each product its own proper consistency.

Apples, berries, grapes, plums, and quinces require less sugar than do currants and cranberries because of their natural sugar. 3/4 part of sugar will jelly any fruit juice with the proper amount of pectin so it is recommended in war time. Replace part of the sugar with corn syrup. For each pound of fruit, use 1/2 sugar replaced with honey or jelly made with 1/4 sugar replaced with corn syrup will be good next winter.

Pectin
A substance in fruit that when combined with fruit and sugar causes a "jell." Apple, plum, and quince juice can be used with fruit juices that do not contain pectin, such as raspberries, strawberries, and pineapple to make good jelly.

To test for pectin use 1 teaspoon juice and 1 teaspoon grain alcohol and stir slowly in juice. If a thin film will form a large amount of gelatinous material. Juice must also be tart.

Cooking Jelly
When all sugar is used the jellying point is found by dipping a large spoon into the boiling syrup and lifting the spoon so the syrup runs off the side. When the syrup separates into 2 distinct lines of drops or "sheets" together, stop the cooking. If honey or corn syrup is used the jelly should be cooked beyond the jelling point.

Sealing
Remove foam from jelly and pour at once into sterilized jars. Fill only to within 1/4 inch of top. Allow to set. With a damp cloth wipe jelly glass. Melt paraffin in a pan over low fire. Pour a thin layer over jelly. Rotate glass so paraffin will stick above surface of jelly. Place clean dry lid on the jelly glass. Label, store in a cool dry place.

For more information on making jellies, preserves, and jams, call Miss Lila Lee Riddell or Miss Grace Pharr, Home Economics Extension Representatives, LOM-3678, Circular 263, "Jellies, Preserves and Jams," may be obtained by writing or call the office, 303 Drexel Building, Philadelphia 6, Penna.

Whenever the jar is full, they set it aside until time to give it to the Red Cross.

About one-third of the fires put out by municipal fire departments in the United States are put out with hand extinguishers.

Red Cross Notes

Mrs. R. A. Cannon, Vice-Chairman of the Main Line Camp and Hospital Committee, this week made a special request for good recent books bound with hard backs—fiction and non-fiction.

The Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter in Philadelphia has been assigned a quota of 2,000 up-to-date novels to be sent overseas and the members of the Camp and Hospital Committee of the Main Line Branch plan to fill as large a percent of this quota as possible.

Through the courtesy and co-operation of the Haverford School with the Main Line Branch of the American Red Cross, a class in Senior Life Saving has been organized by the First Aid, Accident Prevention, and Water Safety Committee. The course, being taught by Frederick Stow, of Wynnewood, has been organized principally to meet the needs of the members of nearby police departments who come from Coatesville, Belmont Ave. Barracks and Lower Merion Township. The enrollment has been completed.

To earn a Senior Life Saving Certificate a minimum of 6 hours in class work is required according to Mrs. Wallis Boileau, Jr., chairman of the First Aid and Water Safety Program of the Main Line Branch of the Red Cross.

Many persons donate money each year to the Red Cross, and many give a weekly quota of service, but it is rare when someone who has only a limited period of free time—a two-week vacation—comes in and gives it to the Red Cross. Such a person is John Hoerle, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Hoerle, 434 Warwick Rd., Wynnewood, who is home for two weeks vacation from Princeton, and is working with the Blood Donor Service under the direction of Mrs. Arthur P. Baugh, Jr.

At the weekly staff meeting, Main Line Branch, Mrs. Theodore A. Phillips, chairman, presented two visitors, Miss Kathryn E. Graham, field representative from the Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter, and Miss Dorothy Linberg, executive secretary of the Central Montgomery County Branch, Norristown. The visitors came to Ardmore to study the methods of procedure used in the local Main Line Red Cross Branch.

Mike Models for Club

Monday evening was camera night for the members of the Gladwyne Camera Club, which meets at the Community House each week. The model for the evening was "Mike," a boxer belonging to E. C. Lindsay of Black Rock Rd. The only one present who didn't enjoy the evening was the model, who found the lights almost too much for a dog to endure. His anxiety to please, along with his anxiety to escape the camera, pouring down him, made him a very lovable subject for the photographers.

Know Your State

As the Pacific war moves toward an assured victory, more and more Pennsylvania communities have been taking steps to prepare themselves to grasp the opportunities of the years which lie immediately ahead. While National policies and international events affect us all, the welfare of every individual community in Pennsylvania will largely depend upon what its citizens are doing now to meet the conditions in the future. This fact is emphasized by a forthcoming publication of the State Department, "Know Your State," a booklet which has been developed by the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce, "Community Action for Local Self Development."

This booklet deals with the experiences of Pennsylvania cities, boroughs, and counties which have developed their plans and put them into active operation. It shows in detail how some small Pennsylvania cities have worked out self-development programs which have benefited all industries and provided means for improving business conditions, developing a program of necessary public works, and providing a sound basis for increasing the volume of local employment. In some sections of the State this community effort has extended beyond the limits of any single local government and has developed into programs of regional cooperation between groups of cities and towns and the surrounding countryside. Suburban communities have succeeded in improving their residential areas and in controlling their development by the benefit of all. One Pennsylvania city, facing a large expansion of war industry took effective steps for its own self-protection through use of the Planning and Zoning Law of the Commonwealth.

A record of results already achieved in the Commonwealth by local action based on careful study of local conditions is one of the most promising signs of our times. It is proof that even in the midst of the greatest war of history Pennsylvania enterprise has been again at work on the community level to build a foundation on which the future progress of Pennsylvania may be assured. While the "11th hour" for post-war planning of any sort, it is not too late for any community whose citizens are sincerely interested in their own future to get to work along Pennsylvania experience to be effective for promoting local development.

Little Things about THE STARS

By GEORGE LILLEY
NEW YORK, N. Y.—Beauty has come into the life of batted, cleft-chinned Ed (Archie) Gardner. He is giving up his interest in baseball and pool, "his said, for oil painting. His tutor: esthetic Ed—Edward G. Robinson. Gardner, 40, failed in everything until he thought up radio's "Duffy's Tavern." Now he lives in an $80,000 Hollywood home with mirrored ceilings, suede-lined closets.

BUG TROUBLE

Throat specialists have been able to figure out cure for laryngitis. But swifter Johnnie Johnston, once felled several times by a bad case of laryngitis, is finding something in this line of announcers and singers—in fact his current starring role replacing Perry Como (until the latter returns in September) from movie work in NBC's popular Monday-Friday evening "Supper Club."

VERY LITTLE THINGS

Probably no one buys gifts as lavishly for friends as Frank Sinatra. Thinks nothing of blowing $5,000 in a smart men's store.

Most writers and producers of horror stories speak in soft voices. Particularly H. P. Lovecraft, who gets up, among others, "Inner Sanctum," "The Thin Man," "Kane Smith," when she returns to the air in September (Fridays, CBS) will be surrounded by proteges. Preceding her will be the "Aldrich Family" following her "It Pays to Be Ignorant"—both formerly part of "Katie" show. "Horror" hereafter will be "A Woman's World." Original title was considered out of keeping with the class of the writer, Kathleen ($1000-a-week) Norris.

Paralysis Cases

Onset of the disease for the Sherlock boy was August 1. Sherlock attended a neighborhood motion picture show on July 26 but no fever contacts at that time were endangered.

On Sunday prior to the onset date Sherlock went to a nearby golf club. That night he was taken ill.

There are four other children in the Sherlock family: Frank, 11; Edward, 9; James, 7; and William, 3. The boy's father is away on vacation.

Neither one of the boys have been on vacations nor have they been using public swimming pools.

When a home is quarantined, Fritschman said, members of the families are kept away from the public and nothing is allowed to go out of the home. Instructions are given the family, he said, as to sterilizing laundry and washing down the rooms with a lysol solution.

Reports for Duty

T-5 Leigh Bickling left on Monday for Indianapolis Gap and Pine Camp, New York. Since his return from Germany early in July he has been spending his furlough with his father, Clarke W. Bickling, Righters Mill Rd., Gladwyne.

New Vice-President Will Replace Mrs. M. J. Edwards
Mrs. Harold R. Bodtke, of Bywood, was appointed vice-president of the Southeastern District of the Pennsylvania Federation of Women's Clubs by the executive board of the Federation at a recent meeting. Mrs. Bodtke will fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Morgan J. Edwards.

Well known to club women of Delaware County, Mrs. Bodtke was president of the Bywood Women's Club from 1929 to 1931. American Home Chairman for the Delaware County Federation from 1931 to 1933, president of the County Federation from 1937 to 1940. American Home chairman of the Southeastern District of the Pennsylvania Federation, and State chairman of the General Federation Endowment Fund.

Her many achievements include heading the project of blood contributions by each club in the Federation for the Red Cross. As assistant director of the Gray Ladies, Mrs. Bodtke reached the goal of one gallon for each club. At the Spring meeting of the Delaware County Federation, she presented the group with a certificate from the National Headquarters of the American Red Cross, which commended the Federation for outstanding service.

Representing Scouts

George B. Culbertson, of State Rd., Gladwyne, a member of the Main Line Board of Review, Boy Scouts of America, representing the Gladwyne Troop, will serve on the Board of Review at Camp Delmont on Saturday. The Gladwyne Troop is planning to go to Camp Delmont on August 19.

Miss Evelyn Lentz Wed Saturday In Quiet Ceremony

In a quiet wedding on Saturday afternoon, Miss Evelyn Lentz, daughter of Mrs. Wilbur Lentz, of Righters Mill Rd., Gladwyne, and Pfc. Ignatius Doran, son of Mrs. James Doran, also of Righters Mill Rd., were married in the Rectory of St. John Baptist Vicinity, with Father Schulte officiating. The bride wore a white afternoon dress, with white accessories. The maid of honor, Miss Margaret Doran, sister of the bridegroom, was dressed in blue. Best man was James Doran, brother of the bridegroom.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. After a few days in Atlantic City Private and Mrs. Doran will reside in Bryn Mawr until Sept. 1, when Private Doran will report to LaGuardia Field, N. Y. before returning to India, where he has been stationed for the past two years. Mrs. Doran is the proprietor of the Gladyne Troop in planning to go to Camp Delmont on August 19.

30 Gallons of Gas New Allowance For Discharged Veterans

Discharged veterans are now entitled to a special gasoline ration, up to 30 gallons, in order that they may be aided in obtaining employment, settling personal affairs and making needed adjustments in the transition from military to civilian life.

The Ardmore War Price and Rationing Board announces this special ruling received last week, and states that such discharges may apply to the local board, bringing discharge papers and stating that gasoline is necessary for the purpose above listed.

This applies to officers and enlisted men and women. A former ruling permitting a furlough ration of gasoline to officers on terminal leave has no longer applied since the new "separation" ration provides gasoline for this purpose.

VERY LITTLE THINGS

Probably no one buys gifts as lavishly for friends as Frank Sinatra. Thinks nothing of blowing $5,000 in a smart men's store.

Most writers and producers of horror stories speak in soft voices. Particularly H. P.
